Ivan Meštrović: Corporeality and Eroticism in Sculpture

13 Feb - 20 May, CD Gallery

Croatia's most prominent sculptor, Ivan Meštrović is "the greatest phenomenon among sculptors", according to Auguste Rodin, an artist credited with transforming sculpture into a modern art form. Meštrović's works have entered the collective memory of three former territorial units (the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy, the Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes and the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia), and co-shaped artistic scenes in several European countries and the USA, where he pursued his artistic path. The exposition, adopting an original concept by architect Filip Beusan and including discrete lighting modulations, offers a new insight into his masterful art and features over fifty works, sculptures and drawings from private and public Croatian collections. Guided tours in English by appointment. Open: 10:00 - 19:00, Thursdays 10:00 - 21:00, Sundays, holidays 10:00 - 18:00.

Medieval Ljubljana

15 Nov 2017 - 2 May 2018, City Museum of Ljubljana
More than 1000 years old wooden vessel challenges our current perspective on the emergence of medieval Ljubljana; leather products that make visiting an medieval shoemaking workshop worthwhile; the grave of a knight that attests to the prestige of the city at the time of the Turkish incursions. Learn about recent discoveries made in Ljubljana's city centre and get first-hand experience of the stories that have been around for more than 500 years. Were the Middle Ages really as dark as we imagine them today? Who ruled the city of the three market towns united by the city walls into one medieval city? How is it that not even the ferocious Turkish incursions could weaken the city walls? And, finally, where does the name "Ljubljana" come from? Guided tours in English on Sundays at 16:30
Open: 10:00 - 18:00, Thursdays 10:00 - 21:00, 24 and 31 Dec 10:00 - 14:00.

Closed: Mondays.
Admission free on 8 Feb, The Slovene Cultural Holiday.

Tihomir Pinter: The Chemistry of the Image

28 Nov 2017 - 4 Mar 2018, Jakopič Gallery
Tihomir Pinter's importance in Slovenian art is such that his body of work deserves a retrospective presentation to commemorate his 80th anniversary, similar to the ones we prepared with painters and sculptors. The author will be extensively involved with the exhibition and will thus come into contact with his audience. He will also collaborate in the technical preparation of the exhibition by developing analogue prints by himself. Guided tours in English on Saturdays at 16:30
19 and 20 Jan: The Whole World is My Studio: Portraying people - in and outside of photographer's studio. Open: 10:00 - 18:00, 24 and 31 Dec 10:00 - 14:00. Closed: Mondays.
Admission free on 8 Feb, The Slovene Cultural Holiday.

Boris Jesih: Connections

30 Nov 2017 - 11 Mar 2018, International Centre of Graphic Arts in Ljubljana
Boris Jesih (1943) established himself as an artist at the end of the 1960s as part of the expressive figuration circle of painters. Under the influence of pop art, he responded to the characteristics of the spirit of the time with his geometric transformation of everyday objects, later also turning predominantly to landscape. As a printmaker, he excels in the techniques of relief printing and flat printing, with superior results in colour lithography. As a prize winner of the 13th International Biennial of Graphic Arts in 1979 (special prize for a young artist), he attracted attention with his series of lithographs, a set of which is part of the MGLC collection. Beside the lithographs, the retrospective exhibition also presents drawings, paintings and photographs, which highlight the connections between his creative process and his works. Open: 10:00 - 18:00. Closed: Mondays. Admission free on 8 Feb, The Slovene Cultural Holiday.

Zoran Mušič (1909-2005)

Permanent exhibition at the National Gallery
Zoran Mušič, the best known 20th century Slovenian-born painter and a man with more than one homeland, spent most of his life between Venice and Paris. He mostly painted landscapes, still lifes, portraits, Dalmatian donkeys and horses, trees, views of Venice, double portraits with his wife Ida, and poignant self-portraits depicting him as an old man. His visual motifs were always related to the Slovenian region of Kras and its typical scenes. He became world famous with his series of paintings We Are Not the Last, in which he relived the scenes he experienced in the Dachau concentration camp. Ljubljana's National Gallery displays the world's only permanent survey exhibition of Mušič's work, which explores the entire range of the famous artist's painting techniques. Open: 10:00 - 18:00, Thursdays 10:00 - 20:00. Closed: Mondays.

Plečnik Collection

The new permanent exhibition at the Plečnik House in Trnovo presents the most important projects of the late architect. Plečnik's creativity comes to life through the plans, models and photographs of his creations such as the Zacherl House in Vienna, Prague Castle, the National and University Library in Ljubljana, the Ljubljana Central Market, Žale Cemetery, the Church of St. Michael at the Ljubljana Marshes and numerous other masterpieces. Several plans of Plečnik's never realized visions are also on display. The Cathedral of Freedom, the master's vision of the Slovenian parliament, is especially worthy of our attention. Guided tours: every hour, on the hour (the last guided tour at 17:00). A group may be a maximum of seven persons. Open: 10:00 - 18:00. Closed: Mondays, holidays

Admission free on 8 Feb, The Slovene Cultural Holiday.

Stanko Kristl is considered one of the most prominent Slovenian architects, a man whose work has provoked and inspired local and international publics alike, both during the process of their creation and up to the present day. As an architect in the broadest sense of the term, Stanko Kristl uses his projects and research work to pose, at every opportunity, the fundamental question of architecture: What is architecture in relation to human? People and their perception of space is a key theme in his work, one that has left a significant mark on architect Kristl's design research approach. Open: 10:00 - 18:00. Closed: Mondays, holidays

W. A. Mozart: Don Giovanni - opera
25 Jan, 19:30, Opera house

Don Giovanni (1787) is considered one of the greatest works of operatic art. The myth about the dissolute seducer has been inspiring philosophers, writers and composers until the present times. Mozart composed his Don Giovanni, mostly presented on our stages under the title of Don Juan, for the Prague Theatre, and experienced a smashing success. The theatre director Diego de Brea, who has lately asserted himself, mostly abroad, as an extraordinary operatic director, will be directing on the Ljubljana Opera stage for a very first time.
